It's not too late to enjoy the Nights at Nance spring concert series held at Nance Plaza. Nights at Nance continues through April with Paul Grimshaw on April 11 and Sawgrass on April 25. Concert performances are 6-8 PM.

Local food trucks and businesses will have food and beverage items available for purchase throughout each event. Plan to arrive early to secure a prime spot as seating is first come, first served.

MBDA Launches New Dining Event - D3

“We think our restaurant neighbors in the downtown area are some of the best kept secrets in Myrtle Beach. And it’s time to reveal the gem we have here.”

The Myrtle Beach Downtown Alliance (MBDA) has created Discover Downtown Dining (D3), a tasting tour of the downtown restaurants, to encourage residents to explore dining options in the downtown area. The inaugural D3 event will be held 5-8 PM, Tuesday, April 16 on Broadway Street.

“We created D3 to highlight restaurants in the downtown area, celebrate the walkability of our downtown and enjoy camaraderie over great food,” said Jason T. Greene, Chief Executive Officer, Myrtle Beach Downtown Alliance. “This taste of Broadway is the first in a series of D3 events. We plan to host off-season events that feature restaurants in the Arts & Innovation District, Ocean Boulevard and Kings Highway. Each event will group neighboring restaurants for ease in facilitating the tasting tour.”

This moveable feast will begin as a Taste of Broadway along Broadway and will include a tasty combination of food and beverages from Dos Carnales, El Rey del Taco, Sabor Caseiro, Swig & Swine and the Tavrne. Plus, a special selection of alcohol-free spring spritzers from Coastal Clear will be served during the opening reception. Coastal Carolina University students will provide entertainment throughout the event.

“We think our restaurant neighbors in the downtown area are some of the best kept secrets in Myrtle Beach. And it’s time to reveal the gem we have here,” Greene added.

At $35 per person, tickets include dishes and beverages from five participating restaurants along Broadway Street. Tickets are pre-purchase only; therefore, no tickets will be available at the event. For full event details or to purchase tickets, visit the TicketLeap event page.

Community Input Meetings Slated for April 30

As part of its spring series of public input meetings, the MBDA will host two more before the summer. These meetings are designed to engage community businesses, residents, and stakeholders in shaping the future of downtown Myrtle Beach. The two additional meeting dates are April 30 and May 2.

The public input meetings will cover a range of topics including

- Street Level and Architectural Design
- Branding and Wayfinding Signage
- Downtown Theme and Public Art Placement
- Green Spaces

During the meetings, the public is encouraged to share ideas, feedback, and suggestions that will help shape the future of the downtown community.
